P a r t A

Foundation

What the brand stands for and how it should feel. The identity that follows is the visible expression of these ideas — and must always serve them.

01 • BRAND PHILOSOPHY

What AYZENITH is

AYZENITH is an independent, Türkiye-based global B2B commerce, sourcing and investment group — built to be trusted across sectors and across decades.

Purpose	Global trade still runs on distance, opacity and risk. We exist to change the terms — giving ambitious businesses a single partner who can source, move and stand behind products anywhere.
Mission	To connect manufacturing, logistics and markets into one accountable partnership — so a business can access global supply without carrying global risk.
Vision	To build the infrastructure for a new generation of global commerce: beginning in trade and compounding into private label, new sectors and a holding built to last decades.
Brand Promise	Global Trade. Absolute Trust. One accountable partner for sourcing, quality, logistics and delivery. Our name is on the result.
Positioning	The institution, not the intermediary. In a category of anonymous middlemen, AYZENITH is the partner that consolidates, de-risks and remains.

WHY IT MATTERS TO THE BRAND

Every visual and verbal choice in this book exists to make one feeling credible: that AYZENITH can be trusted. The identity is restrained, precise and permanent because trust is the product.

02 • BRAND PERSONALITY

How the brand should feel

If AYZENITH were a person, they would be the composed professional others rely on in difficult moments — never the loudest in the room, always the most dependable.

Strategic

We think in decades and systems, not deals. The brand reads as considered, never impulsive.

Reliable

Consistency is the personality. Everything is where it should be, done to the same standard, every time.

International

At home across borders. The brand holds one standard everywhere and speaks to the world, not one market.

Modern

Contemporary and precise, without chasing trends. Clean geometry, generous space, current craft.

Precise

Exact language, exact spacing, exact figures. Nothing approximate, nothing inflated.

Confident

Assured without volume. The brand states its position plainly and does not oversell.

Professional

Institutional in bearing. Every surface looks like the work of a serious organisation.

Calm

Composed under pressure. Weighted motion, quiet colour, unhurried tone — the feeling of control.

THE ONE-LINE TEST

If a design or a sentence feels loud, rushed or boastful, it is off-brand — regardless of how impressive it seems. When in doubt, choose the calmer, more precise option.

Part B

Core Identity

The fixed system: the logo, type, colour and layout that make AYZENITH instantly recognisable. These are documented from the approved website and Enterprise Design Manual, and are not to be redesigned.

03 • LOGO SYSTEM

The mark and how it is built

The AYZENITH logo is a triangular A·Y·Z monogram — a zenith, a peak — set above the AYZENITH wordmark. Its single signature detail is the gold three-bar "E": the one point of gold, the mark's "zenith".

PRIMARY — FULL COLOUR ON LIGHT

REVERSED — OFF-WHITE ON DARK

The system

Primary logo	Full lockup — monogram above wordmark, navy artwork with the gold "E". Default for light surfaces, documents and print.
Secondary logo	Reversed monochrome for dark surfaces (off-white, not pure white). Used on the navy website, footer and dark applications.
Horizontal lockup	Recommended addition. Monogram left, wordmark right — for navbars, letterhead and wide, short spaces.
Vertical lockup	The primary stacked form (monogram over wordmark) — for covers, posters and square-ish spaces.
Monogram	The triangular A·Y·Z mark alone — for avatars, app icons and small or square placements where the wordmark would be illegible.

SOCIAL AVATAR

APP ICON

FAVICON

OPTIONAL RECOMMENDATION

Produce a dedicated reversed export that keeps the gold "E" (rather than rendering the whole mark one colour), and a standalone monogram file and horizontal lockup as vector (SVG). This preserves recognition at small sizes and on dark surfaces, and is a documentation improvement — not a redesign.

04 • LOGO USAGE

Protecting the mark

The logo is the most valuable asset in this book. These rules keep it legible, consistent and unmistakably AYZENITH wherever it appears.

CLEAR SPACE — KEEP CLEAR ON ALL SIDES

Safe area

Maintain clear space around the logo of at least the height of the monogram's base on every side. Keep other elements, text and edges outside this zone.

Minimum size

Never render the mark below 28 px (≈ 7 mm) in height — the legibility floor for the monogram. Below this, use the monogram alone.

Background rules

- Full-colour logo on white, off-white and light neutral backgrounds.
- Reversed (off-white) logo on navy and dark photographic backgrounds.
- On photography, place the mark on a calm, low-detail area with sufficient contrast — add a subtle navy scrim if needed.

Do

- Preserve the original proportions and clear space.
- Use approved colourways only: full-colour or reversed.
- Give the mark room to breathe.

Don't

- Stretch, rotate, or distort the mark.
- Recolour it, add effects, or place it on low-contrast backgrounds.
- Rebuild or re-space the wordmark, or separate the "E" bars.

05 • TYPOGRAPHY

The type system

Type carries most of the brand's voice. AYZENITH uses three families: Inter for interface and body, Newsreader for rare editorial emphasis, and IBM Plex Mono for labels and data.

DISPLAY • INTER 700

The world is your market.

HEADING • INTER 700

One partner, factory to market.

BODY • INTER 400

Reliable product flow to retail, wholesale and e-commerce buyers — on time, in full, defect-free.

CAPTION • INTER 500

Continents in active sourcing

BUTTON • INTER 600

Start a Partnership

EYEBROW • MONO 600

WHAT WE DO

QUOTE • NEWSREADER

Scale should feel like simplicity.

Scale & rules

The type scale follows a Major Third ratio (1.250), fluid at display sizes. Headlines use tight tracking ($-0.02em$) and generous line-height for calm authority; body copy holds a comfortable measure of ~65–75 characters. Numbers in data use tabular figures so columns align.

FALLBACKS

Where the brand fonts are unavailable (email, some documents), fall back to system sans-serif for Inter, Georgia for Newsreader, and a standard monospace for Plex Mono. The hierarchy matters more than the exact face.

06 • COLOR SYSTEM

Navy, gold and clarity

The palette is built on two brand colours — Navy (depth and trust) and Gold (value, the zenith) — supported by a disciplined neutral range. The marketing surface is dark-first; navy is the brand's soul.

Navy — primary (depth)

Navy 950 #050B14	Navy 900 #0A1A2F	Navy 800 #0D2137	Navy 700 #123252	Navy 500 #2C5282	Navy 200 #B4C4D6

Gold — secondary (value / zenith)

Gold 700 #8A6D1C	Gold 600 #A88420	Gold 500 ★ #C9A227	Gold 400 #D9B84A	Gold 300 #E7CE7C	Gold 100 #F6EDD2

Neutral — structure & clarity

White #FFFFFF	Off-white #F7F8FA	Neutral 200 #DDE1E7	Neutral 400 #9AA2AD	Neutral 600 #4A525E	Neutral 800 #1E242C

Gold usage principles

Gold is precious — used sparingly, it stays valuable. Reserve it for the primary call-to-action, the logo "E", small accents and rare display emphasis. Gold as body text or large fills fails contrast and cheapens the mark. One gold moment per view is usually enough.

Accent & background rules

On dark surfaces the accent is gold; on light surfaces the accent is navy (gold on light fails contrast), while the CTA stays gold everywhere. Backgrounds alternate navy and light in a calm rhythm. Elevation is navy-tinted, never pure black.

07 • LAYOUT SYSTEM

Space, grid and structure

Layout is where the brand's calm and precision are felt. Generous space is not empty — it is the confidence to let each element stand alone.

SYSTEM	STANDARD
Spacing	An 8-point grid governs all spacing. Rhythm is geometric, not arbitrary; whitespace is used generously.
Grid	A 12-column responsive grid with consistent gutters. Content aligns to the grid; nothing floats without reason.
Containers	Site content max-width 1200px ; wide/dashboard layouts 1440px . Body measure held to ~65–75 characters for readability.
Section rhythm	Major sections separated by large, fluid vertical space, alternating light and navy surfaces for cadence.

Radius

Elevation

COMPONENT RHYTHM

Shadows are soft and navy-tinted, never pure black. A single faint gold hairline is the system's structural signature — used to separate, never to decorate. Consistent radius and spacing across every component are what make the whole system feel like one hand made it.

Part C

Expression

How the brand behaves beyond type and colour — the imagery, icons and motion that bring the identity to life without ever competing with the message.

08 • PHOTOGRAPHY DIRECTION

Real work, seen with restraint

Photography must feel true. AYZENITH shows real global commerce — not generic, smiling stock. The goal is credibility: the sense of a serious operation the viewer can trust.

Subjects we show

Real business and trade: warehousing, manufacturing floors, logistics and freight, premium product photography, and genuine human interaction in professional settings.

Subjects we avoid

Clichéd stock — handshake close-ups, glowing globes, arrows over skylines, staged "diverse team high-fiving". Anything that looks bought rather than lived.

Lighting	Natural or considered directional light. Deep, controlled shadows over flat brightness — depth reads as substance.
Composition	Confident negative space, strong lines, precise framing. One clear subject; nothing cluttered.
Colour & grade	Cool, slightly desaturated with navy undertones; occasional warm gold highlight. Never oversaturated or heavily filtered.
Human interaction	Real people at real work — focused, professional, unposed. Dignity over enthusiasm.
Treatment	On dark layouts, a subtle navy scrim keeps overlaid type legible and unifies imagery to the palette.

INTERIM STANDARD

Until an owned photography library exists, the site uses on-brand navy placeholder surfaces rather than weak stock. A considered placeholder is preferable to a generic photograph. Replace placeholders only with imagery that meets this direction.

09 • ILLUSTRATION STYLE

Structural, not decorative

AYZENITH does not use playful or character illustration. Its "illustration" language is abstract and structural — the same geometry that builds the logo.

- Precision grid. A faint navy line grid, softly masked, evokes structure, engineering and global coordinates. It is the signature background texture.
- Gold hairline. A single, soft gold gradient line used to divide and signal — the brand's structural accent, never a flourish.
- Geometric depth. Layered navy gradients and a single restrained glint create depth without imagery, echoing the triangular monogram.
- Restraint. Graphics support type; they never compete with it. If a decorative element draws the eye first, it is wrong.

10 • ICONOGRAPHY

Clear, consistent line icons

Icons are functional wayfinding, not decoration. AYZENITH uses a single, consistent line-icon set with an even stroke weight.

Style	Outline (line) icons with a consistent ~1.5px stroke, rounded joins, minimal detail.
Colour	Inherit text colour — navy accent on light, gold on dark. Never multicolour.
Usage	To aid comprehension and navigation only. One icon per idea; never purely ornamental.
Consistency	Draw from one library (the site uses a single line set) so every icon feels part of the same family.

11 • MOTION PRINCIPLES

Motion that feels weighted and sure

Motion should feel like a bank vault door: substantial, smooth and deliberate — never bouncy, playful or fast for its own sake. Elegant, calm, purposeful, never distracting.

How it feels

Weighted and controlled. Elements ease in and settle; nothing springs, overshoots or bounces. Motion reassures — it signals a system in command of itself.

What it does

Reveals content calmly on scroll, guides attention between states, and confirms actions. It always serves comprehension, never spectacle.

TOKEN	VALUE & USE
Duration — fast	200ms · small state changes, hovers.
Duration — base	320ms · standard transitions and reveals.
Duration — slow	480ms · larger, more deliberate movements.
Duration — slower	640ms · rare, emphatic reveals.
Easing	Standard <code>cubic-bezier(0.4, 0, 0.2, 1)</code> and emphasis <code>cubic-bezier(0.2, 0, 0, 1)</code> . No spring, no bounce.

ACCESSIBILITY — NON-NEGOTIABLE

Motion always respects `prefers-reduced-motion` . For users who request reduced motion, animation is effectively removed. Focus states are never suppressed. Calm also means considerate.

Part D

Voice

How AYZENITH sounds. The voice is as much a part of the identity as the logo — confident, clear and restrained, the same in every language and on every channel.

12 • TONE OF VOICE

How AYZENITH speaks

We speak the way we want to be trusted: with confidence, clarity and restraint. We state our position plainly and let it stand — we do not sell it with volume.

How AYZENITH speaks

- Plainly and precisely — every word earns its place.
- Confidently, without boasting.
- Honestly — figures reflect how we operate today, never inflated.
- Calmly — no urgency, no pressure, no hype.
- Responsibly — clear about what we do and do not do.

How AYZENITH does not speak

- No "world-class", "leading", "cutting-edge", "best-in-class".
- No exaggerated claims or invented statistics.
- No aggressive or high-pressure sales language.
- No jargon that hides rather than clarifies.
- No slang, hype or exclamation-driven excitement.

Professional examples

On-brand: "We reply to qualified inquiries within two business days." · "We compete on reliability, not price." · "Every figure reflects how AYZENITH operates today — stated honestly, never inflated."

Off-brand: "We're the world's leading trade partner!" · "Unbeatable prices, act now!" · "A revolutionary, cutting-edge platform."

Distance should never mean risk. Borders should never mean doubt.

13 • WRITING STYLE

Writing across channels

The voice is constant; the register adapts. Below is how the same confident, restrained tone is applied to each surface.

CHANNEL	HOW WE WRITE
Website	Editorial and precise. Short, declarative sentences; a clear eyebrow, a strong headline, one idea per section. Confidence through clarity, not adjectives.
Emails	Direct and respectful. Get to the point quickly, make one clear ask, close courteously. Never pushy, never padded.
LinkedIn	Professional and useful. Share substance, not self-promotion; speak as a credible institution, not a salesperson.
Sales documents	Structured and exact. State scope, standards, responsibilities and terms plainly. Promise only what operations can deliver.
Presentations	Minimal text, strong hierarchy, generous space. The slide supports the speaker; it is not a document to be read aloud.

Universal rules

- Lead with the point. Respect the reader's time.
- Prefer the specific to the general, the honest to the impressive.
- Use tri-lingual consistency: the same meaning and restraint in English, Türkçe and Deutsch.
- When unsure, cut. Brevity reads as confidence.

Part E

Applications

The identity in the world — from a business card to a trade-fair stand — and how it should evolve over the next decade while remaining unmistakably AYZENITH.

14 • CORPORATE APPLICATIONS

The brand on paper and in the inbox

Corporate materials are often the first physical proof of the brand. They should feel like the website: precise, spacious and unmistakably AYZENITH.

Business card	Navy or off-white, generous margins. Monogram or full mark, name and role in Inter, details in mono. Optional gold edge or a single gold hairline. Restraint over ornament.
Letterhead	Logo top-left with full clear space, a faint gold hairline under the header, mono contact strip in the footer. Wide margins; the page should breathe.
Email signature	Plain, single-column: name (Inter 600 navy), role and company, then contact details in a smaller neutral tone. Optional small logo. No banners, quotes or images that break in clients.
Presentation template	Navy and light master slides, large type, one idea per slide, gold used once per slide at most. Mono eyebrows label sections.
Proposal template	Mirrors this manual: cover, clear hierarchy, generous space, navy/gold system. Structured around scope, standards, responsibilities and terms.

15 • SOCIAL MEDIA IDENTITY

A consistent presence

On social platforms AYZENITH appears as a credible institution, not a marketer. Profiles are consistent, restrained and unmistakably on-brand across every channel.

LinkedIn

The primary channel. Monogram avatar on navy, a navy/grid banner with the tagline. Content is substance — capability, standards, considered perspective. Professional, never promotional.

Instagram

A visual record of real operations, product and brand craft — held to the photography direction. Cohesive navy-and-gold grid; quality over frequency.

YouTube

Considered, well-produced content: capability explainers, partner perspectives, behind-the-operation. Calm pacing and motion that matches the brand.

Shared standards

- Same avatar everywhere: the monogram on navy, correctly cleared and centred.
- Banner uses the navy field and grid texture with the tagline — no clutter.
- One voice across channels: confident, clear, restrained; identical bio meaning in all languages.
- Gold appears as a small accent, never as a dominant fill.

GOVERNING IDEA

Every post is a brand impression that either builds or spends trust. If a post would not sit comfortably beside the website, it does not belong on an AYZENITH channel.

16 • TRADE FAIR IDENTITY

How AYZENITH appears at exhibitions

At international fairs — such as Hostech, IFA, Ambiente and comparable trade events — the stand is a three-dimensional expression of the brand. It should feel like walking into the website.

Presence	Composed and confident, not loud. A calm navy space with precise lighting draws serious buyers more effectively than noise and colour.
Materials & colour	Deep navy surfaces, clean neutral structure, restrained gold accents. Quality materials and finish signal the institution the brand claims to be.
The mark	The monogram and wordmark, well-cleared and well-lit, as the anchor. Reversed (off-white) on navy walls. Never crowded with competing graphics.
Messaging	One clear line — the tagline or core promise — over dense copy. Capability shown through real product and considered visuals, not slogans.
Lighting & motion	Warm, directional light and any screen motion kept weighted and calm, matching the motion principles. Depth and focus over flash.
People	The team is part of the identity: professional, calm, genuinely helpful. The stand exists to begin conversations, not to broadcast.

THE STAND TEST

A visitor should be able to sense, before reading a word, that AYZENITH is precise, international and reliable. If the stand feels busy or generic, it is working against the brand.

Evolving without losing ourselves

A brand built for permanence should mature, not reinvent. Over the next decade AYZENITH will grow across categories and sectors — and must remain instantly recognisable throughout.

The vision compounds trade into private label, new sectors, proprietary brands and a lasting holding. As that happens, the identity should deepen rather than change. The following are the guard-rails for evolution.

What must not change

The triangular A·Y·Z monogram, the navy-and-gold palette, the gold "E", the restrained and precise personality, and the promise — Global Trade. Absolute Trust. These are the anchors of recognition.

What may evolve

A refined vector logo system and sub-brand marks for new ventures; an owned photography library; an expanded, documented component and layout system; a maturing motion language — all within the existing identity.

A phased path (optional recommendations)

Near term	Vectorise the logo; produce the monogram, horizontal lockup and a reversed export that keeps the gold "E". Formalise this book as the single source of truth.
Mid term	Build an owned photography library to the photography direction. Extend the design system to new applications (proposals, decks, packaging) without altering the core.
Long term	Introduce a coherent sub-brand architecture for private label and new sectors — each clearly a member of the AYZENITH family, sharing the monogram logic, palette and voice.

THE PRINCIPLE OF EVOLUTION

Every future change is tested against one question: does this deepen recognition and trust, or dilute it? We refine the identity; we do not restart it. Built for permanence applies to the brand itself.

Scale should feel like simplicity. That is the company — and the brand — we are building.
